

Management Consultants Mining

Welcome to MCM

Management Consultants [Mining] are the co-coordinators of a group of highly regarded professional management and technical staff skilled in the exploration, development and mining of resource projects.

The objective of the Group is to provide excellent service and to assist progressive Mining and down-stream Organisations in the efficient implementation of key corporate objectives by offering excellent management and technical experience and expertise.

The Group specialist skills are in Corporate Management, Operational and in Project disciplines and are able to cover all aspects of the exploration, development and operation of open cut and underground mines plus the associated downstream facilities.

It is well recognised in the industry that the cost of maintaining a permanent, motivated, highly skilled professional workforce on the payroll of mining companies can be prohibitively expensive, plus it is not always possible to maintain a full time productive work schedule for these persons.

Management Consultants [Mining] are able to provide the excellent organisational management expertise along with the highest calibre technical skills without the cost associated with running a large permanent staff. Further it is recognised at the both the corporate and operational levels there is a need to ensure that the highest level of expertise is available if a progressive company is to be successful in its endeavors in mining and downstream activities in the competitive economic circumstances.

In the current economic climate the experience in operating under tight financial constants has proven to be of significant benefit to clients and to assist with internal cultural change.

Management Consultants [Mining] are able to provide the excellent organisational management expertise along with the highest calibre technical skills without the cost associated with running a large permanent staff.

The group operates as a flexible entity and individuals from the Group are called on only when their specific professional skills are required on an Assignment or Project. This ensures the highest level skills are available at a minimum cost to the Client Company.